

DUMBARTON OAKS PUBLICATIONS

List of Abbreviations Used in Byzantine Publications

This list is not exhaustive. Authors who frequently cite a work or journal not listed below may wish to improvise their own abbreviation, modeled on these examples and defined in their text. When using these abbreviations, authors should use arabic numerals to note volume numbers, even if the publication in question uses roman numerals. Part numbers should be separated from the volume number with a period (e.g., ACO 1.1:57). For further direction, see The Chicago Manual of Style, 17th ed. (Chicago, 2017), chaps. 14–15.

Every row in this table has an id identical to the abbreviation, facilitating URLs that point to specific parts of this list, e.g., <http://www.doaks.org/resources/publications/resources-for-authors-and-editors/list-of-abbreviations-used-in-byzantine-publications#DOP>.
